

PRIVACY POLICY

Commitment to Privacy

Erickson's is committed to maintaining the integrity of the privacy of your personal information.

What information does Erickson's gather about you?

The only information Erickson's collects is information that is voluntarily supplied by you via email, regular mail, or other methods of communication. This includes email addresses, home or business addresses, phone numbers, and names, or other information provided by you in the normal course of business.

Does Erickson's share this information?

No - Erickson's only uses this information internally to better service our customers' needs, or to administer such programs that require the use of that information, as appropriate. Erickson's does not share, sell or rent this information to unrelated third parties.
